INTERIM REPORT
TO THE PLANNING COMMITTEE
BY THE TECHNICAL COMMITTEE ON THE INDEPENDENT ELECTORAL COMMISSION

29 JULY 1993

1. Following the extensive debate in the Negotiating Council on 20 July 1993, the Technical Committee has given detailed consideration to the issues which were raised in the course of the debate. As a result, it is now contemplated that a number of amendments will be effected to the text, and it is proposed to table a third draft of the Act for consideration by the Negotiating Council as soon as possible.

  2. In terms of the decision of the Planning Committee conveyed to the Technical Committee in terms of a memorandum dated 21 July 1993, it is noted that a "political" sub-committee has been constituted to consider and advise with particular reference to a number of core issues, upon which divergent views were expressed during the course of the debate. Accordingly, the Technical Committee awaits the advice of this political sub-committee with particular reference to the clauses defined in the memorandum, namely :

- Clause 7
- Clause 16
- Clause 17
- Clause 18.3
- Clause 21.

The submissions of the next (third) draft of the Bill, must await the relevant instructions and advice of the "political" sub-committee.

4. The Technical Committee further reports that it has had a preliminary meeting with Deputy State Law Adviser, Advocate J.H. Bruwer, who has been seconded to assist the Committee with the preparation of a Bill in a form appropriate for submission to Parliament. Further meetings will be scheduled as the need may arise.

5. Concerning the preparation of a new Electoral Act, the Technical Committee is engaged in a programme of meetings and drafting with a view to submitting its initial proposal for consideration by the Negotiating Council by not later than Friday 20 August 1993. There are certain fundamental constitutional issues which must be clarified to facilitate the drafting of this legislation, and steps are being taken to arrange a meeting between this Technical Committee and the Technical Committee on Constitutional Matters. Such issues include voter eligibility, and the system of Proportional Representation which is to be adopted.

6. In accordance with the instructions of the Planning Committee, no public hearings are being scheduled, although the Technical Committee is meeting with certain parties from whom submissions have been received and where clarification and further input is considered appropriate.

THESE MINUTES ARE CONFIDENTIAL AND RESTRICTED TO MEMBERS OF THE AD HOC COMMITTEE ON THE INDEPENDENT ELECTORAL COMMISSION ACT, THE PLANNING COMMITTEE AND THE NEGOTIATING COUNCIL.

The meeting commenced with the tabling of the brief received from the Planning Committee.

1 Brief

- 1.1 To recommend response to two letters received by the Planning Committee
- 1.2 To examine 5 Sections of the I E C Act, viz Sections 7, 16, 17, 18,3 and 21 which have not yet been agreed upon by the parties to the Negotiating Council.

2 Matters

Letters from the Technical Committee on IEC referred to the Ad Hoc Committee by the Planning Committee tabled:

- 2.1 With respect to the letter dated 14 July dealing with requests to make oral submissions to the Technical Committee, it was agreed that following written submissions, oral evidence would be permissible where such oral representation was at the request of the Technical Committee as previously agreed by the Negotiating Council.
- 2.2 A new Electoral Act: an invitation for submissions in this regard has already been made to delegations to the Negotiating Council. The question has arisen whether interested parties outside of the Negotiating Council be invited to make representations in this regard.

In this regard there is a need to confirm or otherwise that the IEC Technical Committee has been mandated to draw up a new Electoral Act.

2.3 IEC Act Sections 7, 16, 17, 18,3 & 21

Section 7 : Issue of participation of international members. Following discussion it was agreed that within the time period permitted the Committee was unable to examine and discuss thoroughly the issues before it in order to make recommendations.

The Committee will examine the points before it, but more time is requested in which to discuss these matters in order to reach consensus.

In conclusion it was agreed that if it was confirmed that the Technical Committee had been requested to draft the said New Electoral Act, then the Negotiating Council should invite outside parties to make submissions if they wish to do so.

3 Meeting Schedule

It was agreed that the Committee would meet again on Tuesday 27 July at 08h00 and during the Negotiating Council lunch recess.

4 Closure

The meeting was closed at 14h05

These minutes were ratified at the 08h10 meeting of the Ad Hoc Committee on the Independent Electoral Commission Act of 27 July 1993 and the amended version signed by the Chairperson of the original meeting on 27 July 1993

It was recognised that there is a close relationship between the IEC Act and an Electoral Act. In addition, there is concern about the need to make rapid progress in finalising both these Acts.

It was therefore decided to RECOMMEND TO THE PLANNING COMMITTEE

Resum D

124 Algernon Road
Norwood, Johannesburg
31 July, 1993

Dear Dr. Eloff,

I am writing to you as secretary to the Planning Committee in order to ensure that the facts are on record concerning how I have handled my situation on the Regional Commission.

1. As you know the commission has had to work at great speed in order to meet the deadlines for its report. As a result of this the commission was discussing the draft report and amendments to this draft until late on Sunday the 25th of July.

2. At the end of this meeting Professor Smit approached me to discuss my position as he said it was clear to him that I had some fundamental problems with the report. I indicated to him that I was in a very difficult situation as in all good conscience it was very difficult for me to sign the report as it had emerged over the weekend. He told me to think about it and that he would call me.

3. On Tuesday morning 27 July Professor Smit called me at 10 am and I told him that I had decided to write a minority report. I asked him how he wanted me to handle this and he said he must have my minority report by close of business on Wednesday afternoon.

4. I submitted my minority report to him on Wednesday as requested.

5. It is important for the Planning Committee to know that I did not have the final copy of the Commission's report when I wrote my report and I still do not have a copy in my possession.

If I had had a final copy I would have been in a position to indicate clearly where there were points of agreement between my report and theirs. I would also have been in a position to ensure that there was no discrepancy of fact between my report and theirs - I certainly don't think there are any but in the absence of the final commission report it is hard for me to guarantee that.

6. At the final meeting of the commission held today, Saturday 31 July copies of the commission's report were handed out and then withdrawn when I left the meeting.

I was told that there were factual inaccuracies in my report. I informed the rest of the commission that I had to write my minority report in great haste and without a copy of the commission's final report and that if they could point out my errors I would be very happy to correct them. This was not done although I asked on two separate occasions for this information.

I asked the commission if I could please table a summary of my recommendations which indicated concisely what I was recommending and also where I could agree with the commission's map. The chairman ruled that this would not be allowed and I was then asked to leave the commission so that the commission could write their rebuttal of my report for submission to the Negotiating Council.

7. It seems to me that it is very unusual practice for the commission to comment on the minority report in its own report. It also raises the question that if the commission is able to add to its report at this final hour, then the author of the minority report should be able to do the same.

I would therefore request that you distribute the following documents to the members of the Negotiating Council

a) a memorandum that is the executive summary of my minority report

b) an outline map indicating my overall approach and my areas of special concern(See attached)

8. Let me summarise by saying that I find myself in the position on Saturday 31 July where

* I still do not have a copy of the commission's final report

* I know the commission is writing some response to my minority report, although I was not present when they discussed this

* I was denied the opportunity to add an executive summary of my report which I had hoped would have been a constructive input to today's commission meeting.

9. One final matter: Last Sunday I asked the chairmen of the commission to please clarify the situation regarding the confidentiality or transparency of the submissions to the commission. I asked in particular that Dr. Eloff or the Planning Committee be asked to clarify this issue in writing as it will clearly be a factor in the public debate on the commission's report. This has still not happened and I would please request the Planning Committee to inform me in writing today of their view and the application of the "transparency" principle with respect to the commission and its documents.

It is my view that all the documents of the commission should be made public as soon as possible.

I hope this letter clarifies some of the procedural issues about the minority report. I also hope you will consider some of the other procedural issues arising from today's meeting of the commission. Finally I would please ask for clarity concerning the confidentiality of submissions to the commission.

Yours sincerely,

Ann Bernstein

Member of the commission on regional demarcation

14

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY OF MINORITY REPORT

by Ann Bernstein, member of the commission on regions

I am unable to sign the commission's report because * I do not believe that the commission has had sufficient time to consult widely enough or consider the issues involved in disputed areas in sufficient depth to propose a map for the country's future regional states.

* I believe that the parties in the negotiations process and the public at large need to be fully informed on the critical and difficult choices involved in regional demarcation; and that a decision then needs to be made by the Negotiating Council on how best to proceed

RECOMMENDATIONS:

Given the time constraints and the political urgency I would recommend that the Negotiating Council:

1. See the work of the commission as the start of the process of demarcation and not the end.

2. Identify the areas of greatest controversy and most importance to the political and economic future of the country in the demarcation process

3. I think these areas are

* the separation or inclusion of the Pretoria functional region from the Witwatersrand

* the eastern Cape/Transkei/Ciskei - should there be one or two regions here

* the northern Cape - should there be a separate region in this area and in particular what effect will this have on the poor? (See map)

On the available evidence to the commission and the work that it has done so far, I am convinced that it is not yet possible to make a definitive judgement on these important areas.

4. The commission has not been able to hear and fully consider the views of enough people generally and in these three disputed areas in particular. In addition the bulk of evidence before the commission has mainly come from organised white interests

5. Public hearings in these disputed areas should be arranged by a delegation or sub-committee from the Negotiating Council so that the debate about the future of these areas can be fully explored and publicly debated by as many South Africans as possible. On the experience of the commission thus far it is clear that such hearings can be organised at very short notice and could be completed and their implications assessed within three weeks if necessary

6. A map for the country should only be finalized by the Negotiating Council after the full evidence that emerges from these hearings is very carefully weighed.

7. In addition to these areas of national importance, there are numerous local communities where there is dispute concerning which side of the regional boundary they will fall. The Negotiating Council must ensure a credible and effective mechanism for consultation and resolution of these local-level disputes.

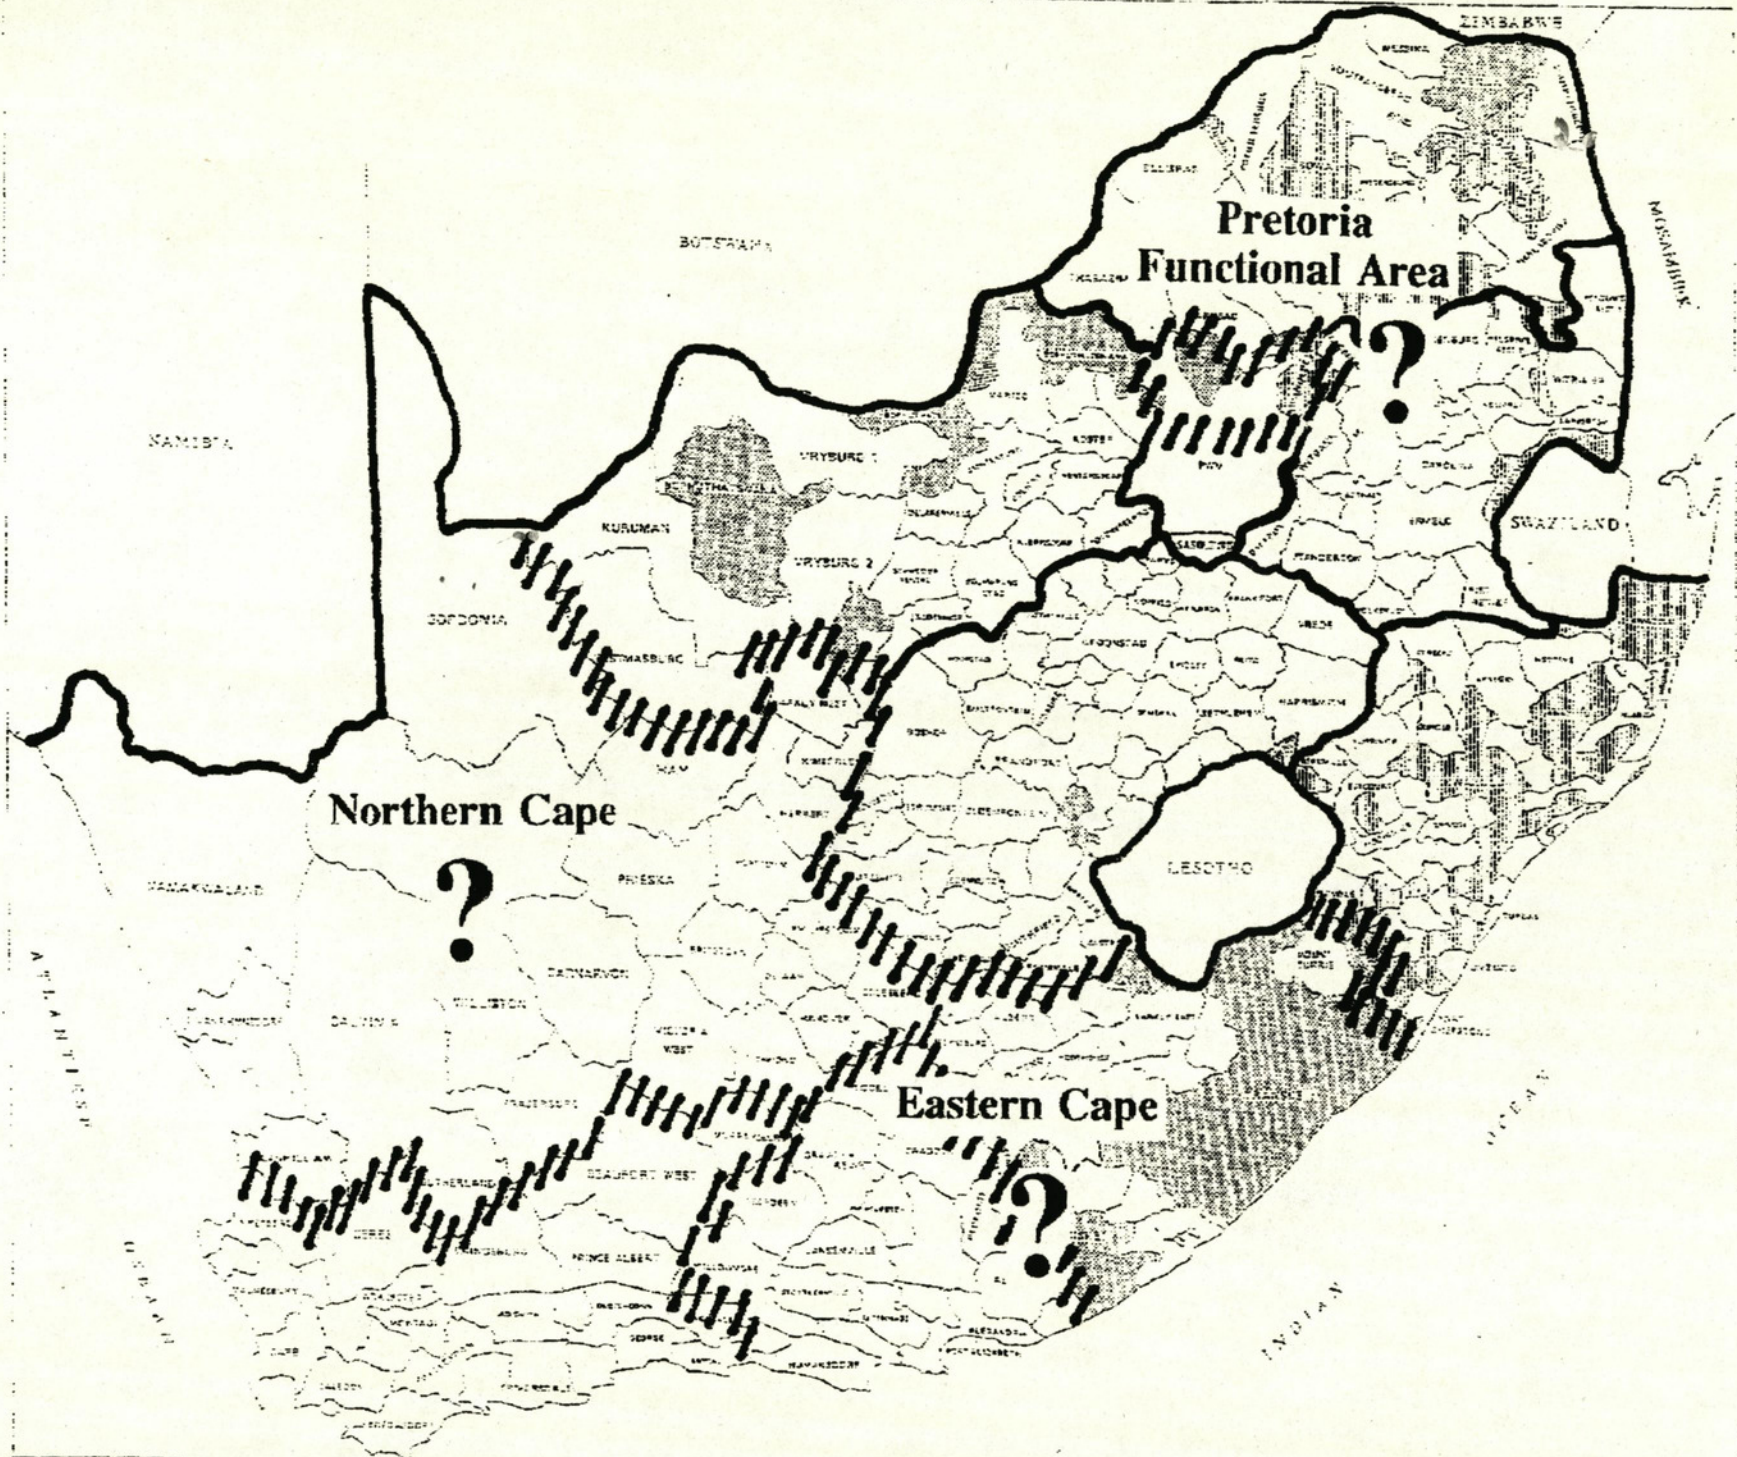

8. This further information and public debate could result in a regional demarcation that not only has a better chance of dealing with the country's political, social and economic challenges but will also enjoy greater public acceptance due to the thorough and democratic processes that have been followed in arriving at the final demarcation.

In conclusion, I would urge the negotiating parties not to proceed with this map now. I am concerned at the negative consequences of making the wrong decisions and finalising the regions without adequate consultation and public participation.
