
The Group of nine people in the technical Committee as been appointed by the Planning Committee there were two persons appointed by the ANC and one person appointed by the PAC an other three persons were appointed by the Goverment and the Nats ,and one person appointed by the AVU.

There were an other two persons of Unknown appointment.

So, it becomes automatically the mazority with the side of the ANC/NATS , No appointed person was there to back the COSAG's ideas. So it was absolutely NO SUFFICIENT CONSENSUS.

In addition to this nobody can claim that these nine persons of the Technical Committee were absolutely too much familiar with international Constitutional Expertise.

To my own international Constitutional Expertise is that the Country must be divided in so many Federal and so many Con-Federal states with each one state with their own Constitution.
