REPORT RE APPLICATIONS TO JOIN CODESA

1. Introduction

1.1 In the process up to and including CODESA 1, it was agreed that political parties/organisations, administrations and the South African Government shall be participants.

1.2 So far the Management Committee (MC) has attended to the various applications in the following way:

1.2.1 The question of traditional leaders and organisations of traditional leaders is receiving attention through the special sub-committee set up by the MC. In this regard it should be noted that the Terms of Reference of this Sub-Committee include the following: listed therein under Clause 2.2.4:

"The possible effect the Sub-Committee's recommendations will or may have on the present composition and constitution of CODESA should be looked at and reported upon."

1.2.1.1. Attached is a list of 11 applications which have been classified under the category "Traditional leaders and organisations". (Section I)

1.2.2 Applications from organisations which prima facie do not qualify as political organisations have been treated under the category "interest groups". Accordingly they have been refused participant status but have been accorded opportunities to make submissions to Working Groups.

1.2.2.1. Attached is a list of 14 organisations which have been treated as falling under the category "Interest Groups".(Section III) This list should be taken together with the 4 organisations which have applied for observer status. These appear under Section V, headed "Observer Status" applications. We suggest that they be treated as interest groups.

1.3 What follows hereunder is therefore focused on guidelines in terms of which applications which prima facie come from political parties/organisations seeking to be admitted as participants in CODESA.

1.3.1. Attached is a list of 17 organisations which could be seen as possible political parties/organisations (Section II).

2. Steps taken to facilitate processing:

2.1. We commissioned a report based on a fairly exhaustive search of reportage in South African newspapers including weeklies, in order to determine what sort of press coverage such applicants enjoyed during the period 1/1/1991 to 31/1/1992. Of the 17 applicants, this report showed that only two of the applicants had received some coverage, namely the Federal Independent Democratic Alliance (FIDA) and the Pan-Africanist Congress in South African.

A summary of the coverage that these two organisations received in the press is attached.

- 2.1.1. Specifically in the case of FIDA, there were 6 reports covering three aspects. (a) Two reports stating that FIDA wants to join CODESA; b) two reports about FIDA's funding in particular from government sources; and c) two reports with regard to ANC "dissidents" joining FIDA.
- 2.1.2. With regard to its membership at different times and on different occasions has claimed membership a membership of 20 000; 400 paid-up members; and close on half a million.
- 2.1.3. In the case of the PAC of SA, three reports appear in the press all during the period of December. Dealing with the desire of this organisations to join CODESA and claiming that it represents a section of the PAC of Azania.

2.2. In commissioning this report, it was hoped that press coverage would give us some indication as to whether any of the candidates exist as a viable political entity and enable us to have some understanding of the applicants' support/membership. It is clear from the above that the analysis of the press coverage does not provide us with any evidence in favour of a conclusion which would suggest that a particular applicant enjoys some measure of proven support. In the case of FIDA nothing emerges in the direction of a political programme of activity.

2.3. In addition to the above steps the MC prepared a questionnaire to be sent to each of the applicants (see Annexure B). The questionnaire was framed in a manner that would help us to determine the activities, membership and physical existence of the applicant as a political entity.

3. Suggestions/recommendations with regard to the 17 applications of possible political parties/organisations listed in the annexure:

3.1. From these applicants, 8 have not replied to the questionnaire which was sent out early in February. We suggest that the failure to reply taken together with the fact that the press analysis shows that none of these 8 received any coverage whatsoever should be taken to imply that these applicants are not following up their applications with any seriousness. Accordingly we would suggest that their applications should be turned down. Particular attention in this context should be drawn to the application of the Pan Africanist Congress of South Africa - the press coverage it received is summarised in Paragraph 2.1.3. above. However it has not replied to the questionnaire and we therefore suggest that it should fall into the category of rejected applications.

3.2. With regard to the remaining 9 applications is a summary of their responses to the questionnaire is attached. With these responses and bearing in mind the analysis of the press coverage for the year 1991 we suggest the following:

3.2.1. Afrikaner Party:

3.2.1.1. This party received no press coverage during 1991.

3.2.1.2. A summary of the questionnaire shows that it has only published 2 publications: (i) Introducing the Afrikaner Party and (ii) Codesa's Secret Forebears. There is no indication of any political activity. It has no presence at parliamentary, local government or civic levels. It is unable to provide any membership figures.

3.2.1.3. We suggest its application be rejected.

3.2.2. Federal Independent Democratic Alliance (FIDA)

3.2.2.1. A summary of the press coverage it received appears in paragraphs 2.1.1./2 above.

3.2.2.2. It has provided no reply to the questionnaire seeking its rules of membership. Its response with regard to activities would seem to be highly exaggerated. eg. it claims that rallies held in 1991 drew crowds between 800 and 3000 people. In this regard it received no press coverage for any of these rallies. Aside from this, it gave no other information regarding its membership.

3.2.2.3. We suggest its application be rejected and that it should be invited to make submissions to Working Groups on matters relevant to any particular Working Group's Terms of Reference. Ie. It should be treated as an Interest Group.

3.2.3. Freedom Party of SA

3.2.3.1. It received no press coverage in 1991

3.2.3.2. It claims a membership of 10 000 in the Western Cape. It has not provided any reply indicating activities with regard to meetings and publications. It has one member in the House of Representatives. In spite of its claims as to membership it goes on to state that it obtained 118 votes in the 1984 General Election, and that in the September 1989 General Election its sole Member of the House of Representatives received 900 votes.

3.2.3.3. We suggest its application be rejected.

3.2.4. Insika National Party

3.2.4.1. It received no press coverage in 1991.

3.2.4.2. It did not complete the questionnaire. It disclosed only 1 office bearer, namely the president; it claims it has members in the Kangwane Legislative Assembly but does not indicate how many. It has not disclosed rules of membership, or activities except to say that it holds conferences annually.

3.2.4.3. We suggest its application be rejected.

3.2.5. Merit Peoples Party

3.2.5.1. It received no press coverage in 1991.

3.2.5.2. Its activities are confined to Lenasia. It has two members in the House of Delegates and 1 member in the Local Management Committee of Lenasia. With regard to the 2 members in the House of Delegates, we draw attention to its reply:

"In General Election 1989 fielded 3 candidates all of whom were returned to Parliament. An Additional Member of Parliament was nominated. 2 members have since joined Solidarity There is an understanding that the independent members of the House of Delegates will be included in Merit People's Party's delegation to Codesa."

3.2.5.3. We suggest its application be rejected.

3.2.6. National Seoporsengwe Party

3.2.6.1. It received no press coverage in 1991.

3.2.6.2. It operates in Bophutatswana. It was in the Bophutatswana Parliament from 1972 to 1982. It claims a membership of 19 320 in 1990.

3.2.6.3. In reply to our questionnaire, we draw attention to Paragraph 6.1. of the reply:
"Parliament: (Bop) 1972 - 1982 In spite of harassment and intimidation. 1982/1987, the dark years of repression. Sixty five arrests and detentions (including the leader of the Party) in one region alone and within 3 days August 27-30/1986, discharged and sued government - Out of Court settlement. Abuse of electoral system leads to litigations, favouring Party in 3 instances. Internal Security Law successfully challenged in "Supreme Court but lost on appeal of government in court of appeal of enclave"

3.2.6.4. We suggest that this application be processed together with the application of the Peoples Progressive Party by the Management Committee.

3.2.7. Peoples Party of South Africa

3.2.7.1. It received no press coverage in 1991.

3.2.7.2. From its reply to the questionnaire it claims 4 members in the House of Delegates. Its activities appear to be confined to Benoni/Actonville and Lenasia.

3.2.7.3. We suggest its application be rejected.

3.2.8 Peoples Progressive Party of South Africa

3.2.8.1. It received no press coverage in 1991.

3.2.8.2. Its reply claims a membership of 49 689 in 1987. It held a national congress in October 1991 attended by 365 delegates representing 193 branches and 157 observers. Among its public activities it states that it held a public rally at Phokeng on 23 November 1991 which was attended by 12 000 people.

3.2.8.3. In Paragraph 3.2.6.4. above, when dealing with the application of the National Seoporsengwe Party we suggested that the applications of the NSP and the PPP be considered by the MC at the same time.

3.2.9. Reform Party of South Africa

3.2.9.1. It received no press coverage in 1991.

3.2.9.2. It states that it has one member in the House of Delegates and 6 members in various local affairs committees.

3.2.9.3. This party appears to have effectively ceased to exist in the 1980s. Its current "revival" is related to the coming into being of Codesa. Since its application its activities re-Codesa have resulted in press coverage in Natal in 1992. This press coverage relates to admissions by the Reform Party, that it is recruiting members in the legal fraternity in the Indian community with the promise that such members will be made delegates in the Codesa Working Groups.

3.2.9.4. We suggest its application be rejected.
