RE: LAWS VIOLATING FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS & THOSE MILITATING
AGAINST FREE POLITICAL ACTIVITY.

In February 1992 Lawyers for Human Rights' Law Reform Project submitted a list of laws still in the Statute books of the country that violate fundamental freedoms and those that militate against Free Political activity for consideration with the belief that appropriate steps would be taken.

Since the submission of the list we have had no feedback from the management committee whether the list has been helpful or not and from the recent parliamentary session we have not seen a shift from the laws as submitted. We are of course aware that CODESA is not a legislative body but believe that with the possible special parliamentary session in October wherein agreements reached at CODESA can be legislated, this could present an opportunity for those laws to be seriously reviewed.

It will be greatly appreciated if the Man-committee could inform us on the progress made with special reference to the list submitted and whether similar submission can be helpful.

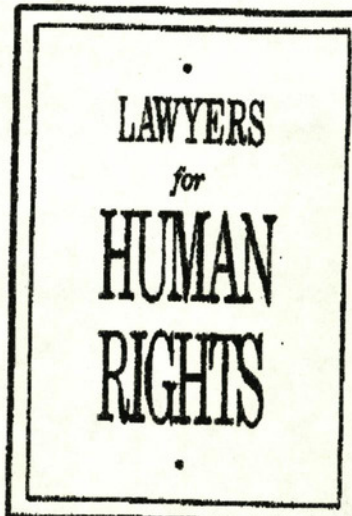

Yours most sincerely

S. RAMASALA
